DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 102

1. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless -

(e) the invention was described in a patent granted on an application for patent by another filed in the United States before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent, or on an international application by another who has fulfilled the requirements of paragraphs (1), (2), and (4) of section 371(c) of this title before the invention thereof by the applicant for patent.

The changes made to 35 U.S.C. 102(e) by the American Inventors Protection Act of 1999 (AIPA) do not apply to the examination of this application as the application being examined was not (1) filed on or after November 29, 2000, or (2) voluntarily published under 35 U.S.C. 122(b). Therefore, this application is examined under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) prior to the amendment by the AIPA (pre-AIPA 35 U.S.C. 102(e)).

2. Claims 14-30 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(e) as being unpatentable by Eder (US 6,321,205).

Eder teaches a computer based system and method for determining part of the value of an asset for investment by an investor, comprising:

receiving data from the investor (20) relating to market value of the asset and to a preferred term of the investment (221);

receiving data from the investor relating to potential return from the asset over the preferred term (222);

calculating a discount value for the asset from the potential return (229);

calculating market values for a range of potential investments using the discount value of the asset and the preferred term of investment (col.19, line 55- col.20, line 47); presenting the investor with a range of market values for the range of investments (see paragraph (col.35, line 14-col.37, line 20 and col. 41, line 43-col.60);

Art Unit: 3628

receiving from the investor an indication of an investment selected from the range (see fig.12, report, report selection, and calculate equity value and prepare report; 909, 915, and 778);

wherein the market values of the investments are calculated to be less than or equal to the future value of the asset (fig.12, steps 772-778); wherein the terms of the investments are calculated to match the preferred term of investment (fig.12, steps 772-778); wherein the investments are calculated to match both the future value of the asset and the preferred term of investment (fig.12, steps 772-778);and calculating a discount value to the asset and using the discount value of the asset to calculate market values of a range of investments (col.19 ,line 56-col.20, line 48 and see steps 201-778 of fig.5).

Response to Arguments

3. Applicant's response filed 9/5/2003 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive.

Applicant argues that the Eder reference does not teach “receiving data from the investor relating to the potential return from the asset over the preferred term of investment”.

Contrary to the applicant’s arguments, Eder teaches “Processing starts in this system (100) with a block of software (200) that extracts, aggregates and stores the transaction data and user input required for completing a valuation. This information is extracted via an interconnection network (25) from a basic financial system database (10), an operation management system database (15), an advanced financial system database (30), a sales management system database (35), and a human resource information system database (40). Information can also be extracted from an on-line external database such as those found on an Internet (5) via a communications link (45). These information extractions and aggregations are guided by a user (20) through interaction with a user-interface portion of the application software (900) that mediates the display and transmission of all information to the user (20) from the system (100) as well as the receipt of information into the system (100) from the user (20) using a variety of data windows tailored to the specific information being requested or displayed in a manner that is well known. While only one database of each type (10, 15, 30, 35 & 40) is shown in FIG. 1, it is to be understood that the system (100) can extract data from multiple databases of each type via the interconnection network (25). All extracted information concerning revenue, expenses, capital and elements of value is stored in a file or table (hereinafter, table) within an application database (50) as shown in FIG. 2. The application database (50) contains tables for storing user input, extracted information and system calculations including a system settings table (140), a revenue data table (141), an expense data table (142)...” at least in col.7, line 67-col.8, line 65).

Art Unit: 3628

Applicant further argues that the Eder reference does not teach “calculating a discount value of the asset from the potential return for the preferred term of investment”

Contrary to the applicant’s arguments, Eder discloses a method and system for evaluating the probable impact of user-specified changes in business value and asset valuations (see col.1, line 17-col.4, line 19); it is inherent, in asset valuations, that the reference must calculate a discount value of the asset from the potential return in order to facilitate a preferred term of investment).

Applicant further argues that the Eder reference does not suggest or describe “presenting the investor with a range of market values for the range of investments to be selected by the investor”.

Contrary to the applicant’s arguments, Eder discloses a data window that are used for receiving information from and transmitting information to the user (see fig. 4).

Conclusion

4. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within

Art Unit: 3628

TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
